PROFILE

I am an industrial designer currently based in San Francisco, CA. I focus on consumer electronics, household products, wearable technology, phone accessories, soft goods and leather goods. I am also specialized in creating professional photo realistic illustrations for websites and commercial use.

I am a team leader, risk taker, fast learner, and a workaholic. I have lead several teams on different startup projects which we were passionate to. I love working with different people and making new friends.

Besides design, I am a musician, rock climber, and a cyclist. I love to try new things and make new friends.
